

The Giving Project

a program of Maine Initiatives

Are you interested in expanding your role in social justice movements in the state of Maine (unceded Wabanaki territory)? Do you want to build transformative relationships across race and class and deepen your political understanding? Do you want to embrace a professional development opportunity to learn more about mutual aid, grassroots organizing, and democratic grantmaking? Do you want to serve on the grantmaking committee for a first-of-its-kind donor organizing experience resourcing community organizing in Maine?

If so, we want you to be part of our inaugural cohort for
The Giving Project at Maine Initiatives, launching January 2024

MAINE INITIATIVES HAS JOINED THE GIVING PROJECT NETWORK, a collaboration of nine progressive funders across the country dedicated to moving money and power to their local grassroots organizing infrastructure. This exciting first year pilot will engage 20-25 dedicated community members to participate in a transformative learning cohort and serve as grantmaking committee for grants resourcing community organizing efforts in Maine.

All Giving Projects across the country utilize the same proven model:

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

- Inviting a group of people from diverse racial and economic backgrounds to form a cohort that comes together approximately 8-10 times, over a 6 month period.

POLITICAL EDUCATION

- Through workshops, training, and peer support, the cohort deeply explores the impacts of racial capitalism and develops a shared understanding of how race, class, and power intersect in our society.

RESOURCING MOVEMENTS

- Each person makes a meaningful financial gift, whatever that may mean to them, before mobilizing resources within their communities.
- The cohort selects the slate of recipients, granting significant financial resources to inspiring and effective grassroots organizations in our community.

SKILL BUILDING & COMMUNITY CONNECTION

- Each person commits to organizing their community to give - family, friends, neighbors, and more – to support the financial goal of the cohort. This process is heavily supported by staff and designed to be accessible to those with all levels of fundraising experience.

DEMOCRATIC DECISION-MAKING

- The cohort is trained in the process of democratic grantmaking, including reading and scoring proposals, interviewing applicants, and equitable group decision making.

JOIN A GROUP OF LOCAL PEOPLE WHO ARE DRIVEN TO ADDRESS THE HARMS OF RACIAL CAPITALISM

as it relates to traditional philanthropy and work towards a shared vision of well-resourced liberation movements.
